

The Université libre de Bruxelles is coordinating the Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree in Tropical Biodiversity and Ecosystems – TROPIMUNDO, for which the European Commission offers a certain number of fully covering scholarships for EU and non-EU students. There are no country restrictions whatsoever.

Candidate Profile	Biology student (from any country) seeking study abroad experience
Program Duration	2 years, 120 ECTS
Coursework	Semesters 1 & 3: basic and specialized courses in Belgium, Italy, France, and French Guiana Semester 2: coursework & fieldwork in the: Amazonian tropical rainforest, Caribbean and Indian Ocean tropical islands, Central-African rainforest, East-African Great Lakes, terrestrial and coastal ecosystems, Malagasy forest ecosystems, and Asian terrestrial, aquatic biodiversity and ecosystems. Semester 4: thesis work related to tropical biodiversity and ecosystems
Funding Support	tuition + mobility assistance, insurance, and monthly allocations provided to Erasmus Mundus scholarship recipients

The scholarship deadline for the 2022-2023 academic year is 15 January 2022.

Questions? Read more about TROPIMUNDO and about Erasmus scholarships.